Art Education Australia

Art Education Australia (AEA), formerly AIAE, established in 1976, is the national body of visual arts educators concerned with the scholarly exploration and promotion of art education theory, practice and research.

Why become a member of AEA?

- We are an effective independent advocacy body representing visual arts education at national and international levels.
- We continue to work strategically across the whole of Australian federal and state governments and we need to demonstrate support from our visual arts teachers.
- AEA responds to issues when no one else can or has time. We provide a unified voice for visual arts educators.
- We are continuing our strategic focus on broader recognition for the role of the visual arts in Australian education, especially in the new Australian Curriculum

Art Education Australia membership entitles you to:

- 2 issues of Australian Art Education, the refereed Journal
- Access to the members-only section of the AEA website www.arteducation.org.au
- Email news
- Reduced rate priority registration for Conferences
- State, national and international network contacts

Each Australian state or territory professional art teacher association is, or has the possibility of, being affiliated with the Art Education Australia. Art Education Australia is affiliated with InSEA, the International Society for Education Through Art.

AEA members provide invaluable support for advocacy of visual arts education at all levels of government. Membership support has enabled us to speak with confidence as an independent voice for visual arts education in Australia. Your membership will help us keep going.
